

Dear Chairman Huebert,

Testimonial

When my oldest was a baby, she would scream and cry and panic when I took her for her shots. I thought I was being a good mother but she has suffered from those vaccinations all of her life. She suffered attention deficits and emotional dysregulation. She knew they were bad, even when she was a baby. After I was severely injured by a medical device, it started to dawn on me that our medical system is unsafe. I began researching everything related to pharmaceuticals and medical devices. This research included a deep and meaningful delve into vaccine science. I have watched and read numerous studies of children and teens and even adults injured by vaccines. I have read the vaccine inserts, I have viewed many peer-reviewed studies that demonstrate the poor safety and efficacy of today's vaccines, some of which I will share with you. These families devastated by vaccines are not lying, vaccine injury is not rare. There is nothing stopping vaccine manufacturers from releasing harmful vaccines on the public. They are not liable for injuries, the taxpayers are. We've paid over 4 billion dollars for those injuries and yet most injured patients have been turned coldly away by VAERs, unable to receive the compensation they deserve. If the vaccine manufacturers were liable for these injuries, they would think twice about releasing unsafe products on an unsuspecting public.

After I learned all of this, I stopped vaccination for my youngest child. She has been healthier since we stopped. I only wish I had never allowed her to receive a single vaccine. She, too, has suffered consequences from vaccination. We're lucky that my daughters' injuries have been comparatively mild to those that many have suffered. I am grateful that my children are not dead, I am grateful that my children were not injured so badly that they cannot function cognitively or are bedridden with painful Guillain-Barré syndrome. I will not allow another vaccination in any child of mine. The vaccine manufacturers are much too careless with human lives for me to ever trust them with my life or the lives of my children.

I do not disbelieve in the science of vaccination. I think that the Smallpox vaccine saved many lives and was a brilliant discovery. But today's industry, in their fervent pursuit of profit, does not test their products for safety and they cut corners with dangerous ingredients like aluminum and mercury. They care nothing for human health, only for what the money they can make from their vaccines. I will not expose my children to dangerous products.

Every state constitution guarantees an education to every child. It is critical for the future of our country to educate every single child. Mandates that force families to choose vaccination or an education are a threat to the very future of these United States. It's a contradiction to declare that parents who do not vaccinate are ignorant then deny their very children their right to an education. Every mandate is a threat to the rights of our citizens but medical mandates are the most egregious of them all. Injecting foreign substances into unwilling people or their children completely disregards our right to bodily autonomy. Vaccine mandates are totalitarian policy that threaten our most fundamental right; our right to bodily autonomy. Authoritarian vaccine mandates are a slippery slope to losing our right to make medical choices for ourselves. Vaccines are a chapter straight out of Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World."

If you believe that parents who oppose mandatory vaccination are ignorant, fine. Then educate, do not mandate. But know that we are not ignorant, we are simply the most informed group on vaccines and our numbers are growing. Please consider the impact in future elections if you alienate this growing population. The rest of the population will not care if you do not pass mandates and it this will not have a substantial impact on your viability as candidates for office in the future. Mandates will be remembered by a growing vocal group of constituents who will oppose candidates who support vaccine mandates that deny children an education in the future.

I present a tiny fraction of the peer-reviewed studies demonstrating that vaccines are harmful. All of these studies show a strong relationship between vaccines and neurodevelopmental impacts. Please read them. It is a lie that there is no valid research connecting autism to vaccines. Much like the tobacco companies, the pharmaceutical industry manipulates science and silences whistleblowers.
